PREFACE

This annual publication of Industrial Mineral Production Statistics and Directory of Producers in Malaysia summarises the national production, prices and producers of industrial mineral commodities for the year 2019 as well as the year before.

The report is divided into three sections namely Summary; Industrial Mineral Production Statistics and Review; and the Directory of Producers. The Summary Section provides a brief overview of the industrial mineral performance during year 2019 while the Industrial Mineral Production Statistics and Review Section gives detail report of each industrial mineral commodity produced. The last section incorporates the directory of producers and location maps of the respective mineral production localities.

The publication reviewed nine types of industrial mineral commodities and provides contact details of over 2,500 industrial mineral producers and 48 locality maps of the respective mineral sites in Malaysia.

It is my hope that this publication will cater for the needs of understanding and assessing the information regarding the industrial mineral utilisation by producers, traders, consumers, consultants, planners, mineral-based manufacturers, researchers and the people at large.

Finally, I would like to convey my deep appreciation and gratitude to the responding companies, the various state Lands and Mines offices and state Land and Survey offices for their support in supplying much of the basic information for the successful publication of this report. Comments and suggestions for the improvement of future publications are most welcome.

SUMMARY

Malaysia's industrial mineral production includes aggregates; sand and gravel; earth materials; limestone for cement; clays; silica; feldspar; kaolin; dolomite and mica. In 2019, the value of industrial minerals produced in Malaysia experienced a 14.3% increase to RM4,467 million from RM3,908 million recorded in 2018. The increase was contributed by the higher production of clay; dolomite; sand and gravel; and silica.

In 2019, there were a total of 384 quarries operating for rock aggregates. Most of them were mainly quarries of granite and limestone, with the remaining of sandstone, microtonalite, andesite, diorite, quartzite, and other rock types. The total production decreased by 2.4% to 128.6 million tonnes valued at RM2,295.1 million compared to 131.6 million tonnes valued at RM2,222.8 million in 2018.

About 33.5 million tonnes worth RM425.6 million of clay and earth materials were produced in 2019. This is a 10.3% decrease from 37.4 million tonnes worth RM413.4 million in the previous year. Earth materials accounted for 73% of the tonnage and the remainder contributed by clay. Clay production experienced a 9.9% increase while earth materials decreased by 16.1% respectively.

Dolomite production increased by 41.6% in 2019 to 371,187 tonnes valued at RM12.2 million from 262,151 tonnes valued at RM17.2 million.

Feldspar production decreased by 41.8% to 241,189 tonnes valued at RM24.8 million in 2019 from 414,441 tonnes valued at RM26.4 million in 2018. The source of feldspar was from the feldspar-rich rocks mainly from Gua Musang, Kelantan. Malaysia's feldspar is principally used by the glass industry.

Kaolin production in 2019 was 400,722 tonnes valued at RM40.4 million. The production decreased by 19.2% compared with 496,219 tonnes valued at RM53.1 million in 2018. Various grades of kaolin were produced including those suitable for paper and paint filler and extender, as well as for the manufacturing of ceramics.

Limestone is produced mainly for the manufacturing of cement. In 2019, the production of limestone for cement decreased by 4.7% to 24.2 million tonnes valued at RM224.9 million compared with 25.3 million tonnes valued at RM282.8 million in 2018.

Mica has a high dielectric strength and excellent chemical stability, making it a favoured material used in a variety of applications. In 2019, mica production decreased slightly by 0.7% to 4,358 tonnes valued at RM2.61 million from 4,388 tonnes valued at RM2.63 million in 2018.

Sand and gravel production in 2019 increased by 54.6% to 69.4 million tonnes valued at RM1,050.3 million, compared to 44.9 million tonnes valued at RM660.9 million recorded in 2018.

Silica production also increased by 15.8% to 4.7 million tonnes valued at RM398.0 million in 2019 from 4.1 million tonnes valued at RM234.2 million produced in 2018. The source of silica is solely from silica sand with various grades produced to meet the industrial demand.

AGGREGATES

Aggregates are defined by a mass of rock fragments commonly quarried from igneous rocks (granite, diorite, gabbro, andesite, rhyolite, microtonalite, tuff, dolorite), sedimentary rocks (limestone, dolomite, sandstone) or metamorphic rocks (quartzite). Rocks quarried, are crushed into different sizes depending on the demand of the consumers. Aggregates are typically extracted near to possible consumption areas to reduce logistics costs as the price for the commodity is low.

Most aggregates especially of igneous origin are mainly utilised for roads and building constructions. Apart from this, limestone powders and chips are also used in manufacturing of terrazzo, cement, chemical and fertilizers. This chapter does not include limestone aggregates usage of the cement industries (clinker). It will be addressed specifically under the limestone section.

PRODUCER

In 2019, there were 384 quarries producing various types of aggregates in Malaysia. The number of quarries according to rock types in the various states is shown in Table 2.

There were 16 types of rocks being quarried with granite and limestone being the most common (Figure 6). The states with the most number of operators were Sarawak with 62; Perak 58; Johor 57; Sabah 54; and Pahang 30. The list of quarry operators and rock types produced is shown in Appendix 1.

PRODUCTION

The total production of aggregates in 2019 was 128.6 million tonnes worth RM2,295 million, a 2.4% decline from 131.6 million tonnes at RM2,222 million the previous year. Granite continued to be the main rock type quarried, contributing about 54% of the total aggregates produced, followed by basalt, constituting 18.3%. The remaining 27.7% in descending order of quantity were outputs from limestone, sandstone, granodiorite, diorite, microtonalite, hornfels, andesite, gabbro, rhyolite, quartzite, dolerite, serpentinite and peridotite (Figure 7). The production of aggregates in Malaysia for the period of 2017 to 2019 is shown in Table 3.

Selangor, Johor and Perak were the three states with highest productions amounting to 32.1 million tonnes, 23.4 million tonnes and 18.1 million tonnes respectively. The distribution of quarries according to production range is shown in Table 4.

PRICE

Price of aggregates varies from state to state depending on types of quarry products and their distances to consumption areas. Presently, there have not been any significant changes observed on the prices of aggregates in the country. The range and average price for aggregates in the states of Malaysia are shown in Table 5 and Table 6.

CLAY AND EARTH MATERIALS

Clay is an essential material for bricks, pottery, ceramic and cement manufacturing whilst earth materials are mainly used for road application, site preparation and landfill.

The type of clay being deliberated in this report includes common clay, ball clay, structural clay, refractory clay or fire clay and weathered shale. Meanwhile, earth materials comprise of laterite, soil and red earth. The productions of clay and earth materials are reported separately. However, figures may not be entirely representative of both commodities as clay and earth materials are yet to be defined clearly by several state authorities. The actual total production is expected to be much higher as the survey carried out were not able to record all existing operations.

PRODUCERS

For 2019, there were a total of 1,341 producers, of which 145 were clay producers and 1,196 were the earth materials producers. 30% of the clay producers were from Sarawak, followed by Johor (20%) and Perak (15%). Meanwhile, the majority of the earth materials producers were from Terengganu with 15% followed by Johor (14%) and Perak (11%).

The department also recorded several privately-owned clay pits of manufacturers of ceramics, bricks, structural clay products for their own consumption. The list of clay and earth materials producers are shown in Appendix 2 and Appendix 3 respectively.

PRODUCTION

Malaysia produced 33.5 million tonnes of clay and earth materials valued at RM425.6 million in 2019. The amount produced in 2019 decreased by 10.3% from 37.4 million tonnes valued at RM413.4 million in 2018.

Clay production increased by 9.9% to 9.2 million tonnes in 2019 compared to 8.3 million tonnes in 2018. Meanwhile for the earth materials production showed a decreased of 16.1% to 24.4 million tonnes in 2019 compared to 29.0 million tonnes in 2018. The percentage productions of clay and earth materials according to the states are shown in Figure 8 and Figure 9 respectively.

In year 2019, the leading clay producing states were Johor (4.6 million tonnes), followed by Selangor (1.5 million tonnes) and Sarawak (0.7 million tonnes). As for earth materials, Terengganu was the highest producer (6.5 million tonnes), followed by Perak (6.1 million tonnes) and Selangor (2.3 million tonnes). The production of clay and earth materials for the years 2017 to 2019 is shown in Table 7.

PRICES

Depending on types of material, the price of clay ranged from RM5.50 per tonne for common clay to RM40 per tonne for fire clay. The price for earth materials ranged from RM8 to RM20 per tonne.

DOLOMITE

Dolomite refers to a dolomitic limestone that contains magnesium and calcium carbonate as its main constituent. Raw dolomite is extracted and crushed into various sizes depending on types of application required. High-quality dolomite is often processed into powder of magnesium oxide (MgO) and widely being used for fertiliser. It is also utilised in glass, cement mortar and clinker production. Dolomite is one of the indispensable ingredients in the field of aquaculture to treat water, increase the alkalinity of water, provides trace elements and macronutrients.

PRODUCERS

Dolomite consumption previously recorded under the production of rock aggregates is addressed separately in this year's publication. For 2019, four producers of dolomite were recorded in Perlis. The names of dolomite quarries together with addresses and locations are shown in Appendix 4.

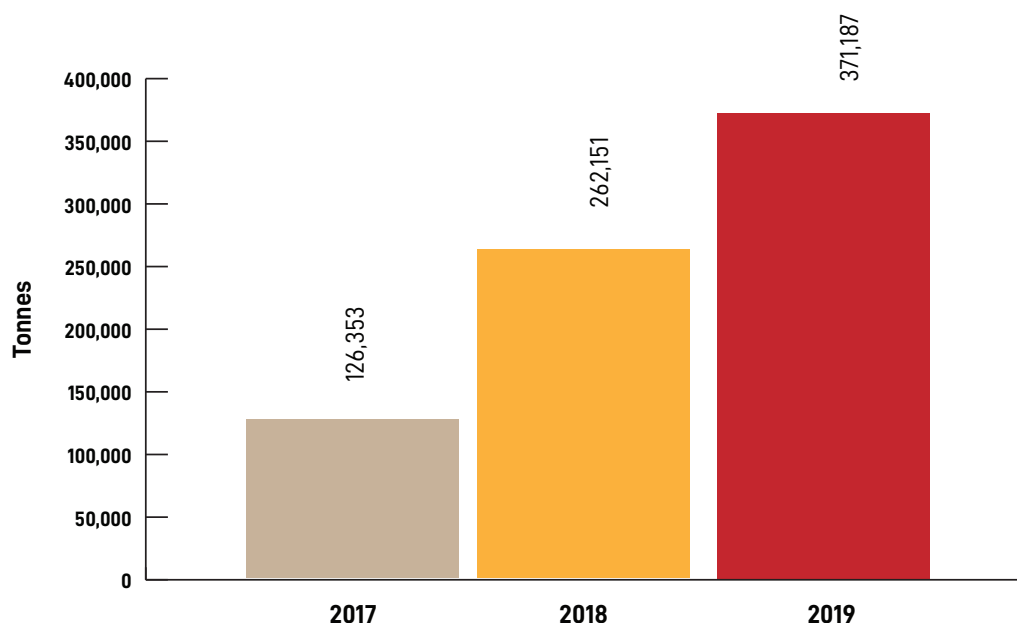

PRODUCTION

Dolomite production increased by 41.6% in 2019 to 371,187 tonnes valued at RM17.2 million from 262,151 tonnes valued at RM12.2 million in 2018. This significant increment was contributed by the higher demand of the export market. The production of dolomite in Malaysia is shown in Figure 10.

PRICES

The price of dolomite was estimated between RM40.00 to RM50.00.

FELDSPAR

Feldspar is a group of rock-forming silicate minerals that make up over 50% of the Earth's crust. Most of Earth's continental crust is made up of igneous rocks such as granite, diorite, and granodiorite. Common feldspars are divided into two major elements compositions which are of potassium feldspar (plagioclase) and alkali feldspar (sanidine, orthoclase and microcline).

Presently, there is a continuous demand for feldspar in Malaysia mostly from the ceramics and glass making industries. In ceramics manufacturing, alkali feldspar acts as a flux to lower the vitrifying temperature of ceramic bodies during firing to form the glassy phase whilst in glass making, alumina from feldspar improves the products hardness, durability and resistance to chemical corrosion. Other industrial uses of feldspar include as functional filler in paint, plastic, rubber and adhesive.

PRODUCER

There were four feldspar producers recorded during the year of 2019. Two major producers were located in Gua Musang, Kelantan (rhyolitic tuff origin) and the remaining producers were located in Gemencheh, Negeri Sembilan (pottery stone) and Lanchang, Pahang (rhyolitic tuff origin). The feldspar produced in these states were mainly utilised by the glass making and ceramics industries. A list of feldspar producers in 2019 is shown in Appendix 5.

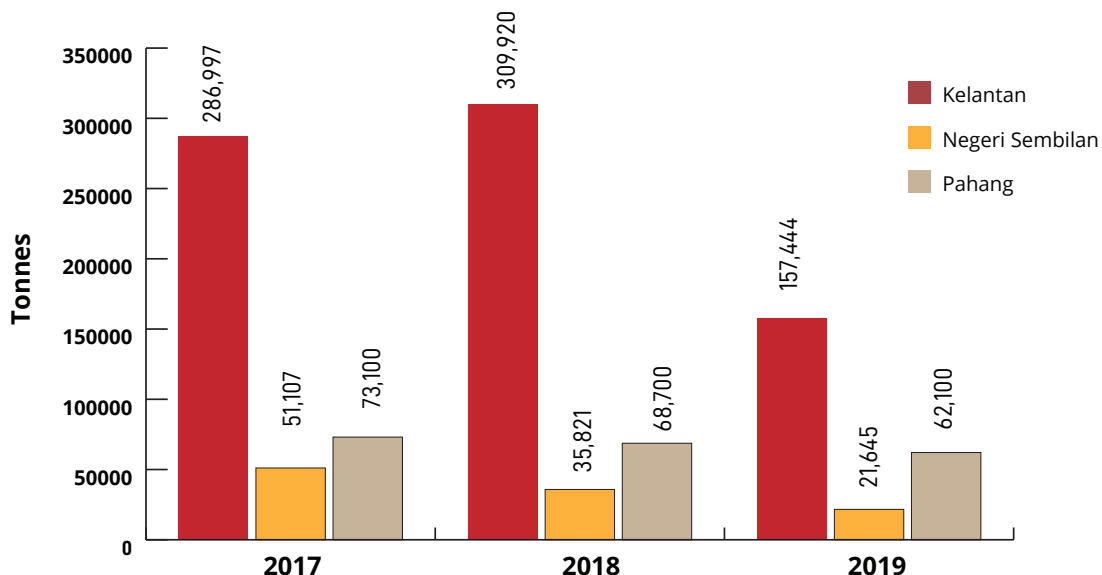

PRODUCTION

The total production of feldspar in 2019 decreased significantly to 241,189 tonnes, valued at approximately RM24.8 million. This was 41.8% decrease compared to 414,441 tonnes at RM26.4 million in 2018. The decline was attributed by the non-operating and closure of several quarries. The production of feldspar in Malaysia is shown in Figure 11.

PRICE

The price of pottery stone in Negeri Sembilan ranged from RM40 to RM260 per tonne while in Kelantan from RM100 to RM120. In Pahang pottery stone was about RM55 per tonne.

KAOLIN

Kaolin is a type of clay consisting of kaolinite mineral with some minor presence of impurities usually quartz, mica and chlorite. It is derived by the chemical weathering of aluminium silicate minerals such as feldspar. Kaolin is also known as 'china clay' and commonly distinguished from other types of clay by its white colour, softness, low plasticity and dry strength. It is often necessary to bleach the clay chemically to remove iron pigments and other unwanted minerals for commercial applications. Processed or refined kaolin can either be in white powder or granules form.

PRODUCERS

In 2019, there were a total of 22 kaolin mines operating in Malaysia. The highest numbers of mines were recorded in Perak (13) followed by Johor (7), Pahang (1) and Terengganu (1). A list of kaolin mines showing their locations and addresses is given in Appendix 6.

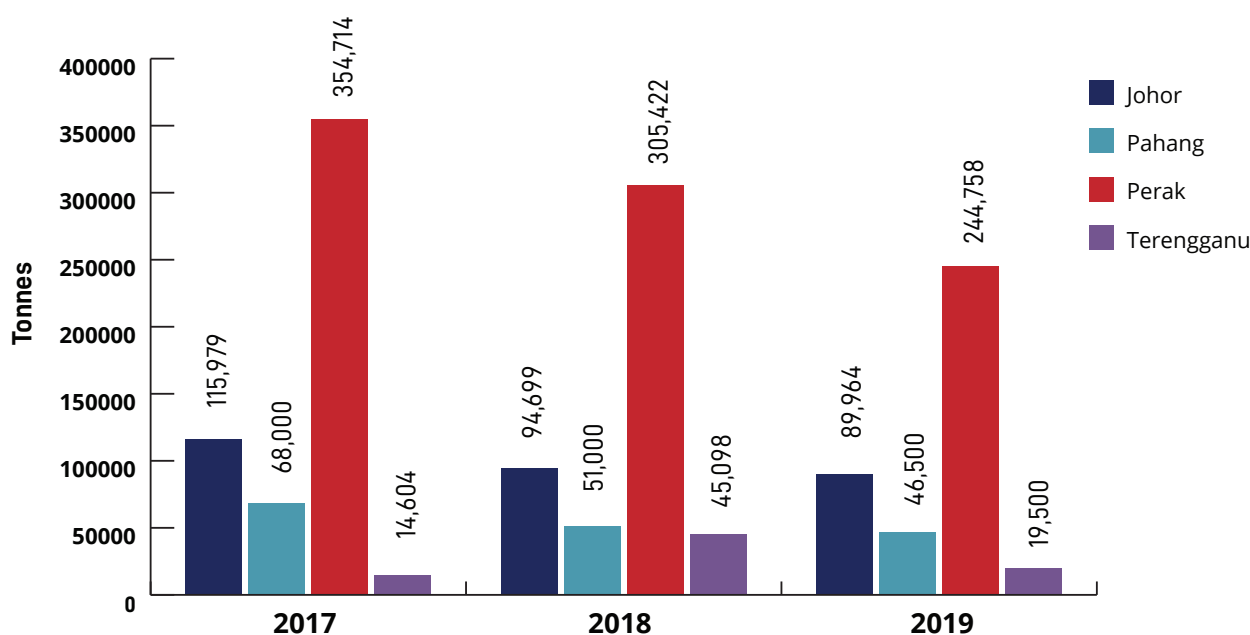

PRODUCTION

The total production of kaolin decreased by 19.2% to 400,722 tonnes valued at RM40.4 million in 2019 compared with 496,219 tonnes at RM53.1 million in 2018. The state of Perak was the major producer with 244,758 tonnes, followed by Johor (89,964 tonnes), Pahang (46,500 tonnes) and Terengganu (19,500 tonnes). Kaolin production by states is shown in Figure 12.

PRICE

Kaolin price ranged tremendously depending on its quality. In Johor and Pahang, the prices ranged between RM20 to RM40 per tonne. However, processed kaolin in Perak and Terengganu ranged from RM80 to RM300 per tonne.

LIMESTONE

Limestone is a sedimentary rock composed mainly of calcium carbonate (CaCO_3), usually in the form of calcite or aragonite. It may contain considerable amounts of magnesium carbonate (dolomite) as well. Apart from carbonate mineral, minor constituents of clay, iron carbonate, feldspar, pyrite and quartz can also be present.

Limestone is utilized extensively depending on its physical properties, chemical properties or both. In Malaysia, limestone is quarried for rock aggregates and dimension stones and used in the manufacturing of clinker, cement, limestone powder, lime and in the pharmaceutical industry. This section only addresses those produced and consumed for cement manufacturing.

PRODUCERS

For 2019, there were 11 limestone quarries producing aggregates for cement manufacturing. Five out of the total producers were from Perak and one each from Kedah, Negeri Sembilan, Pahang, Perlis, Sarawak and Selangor. A list of the limestone quarries is indicated in Appendix 7.

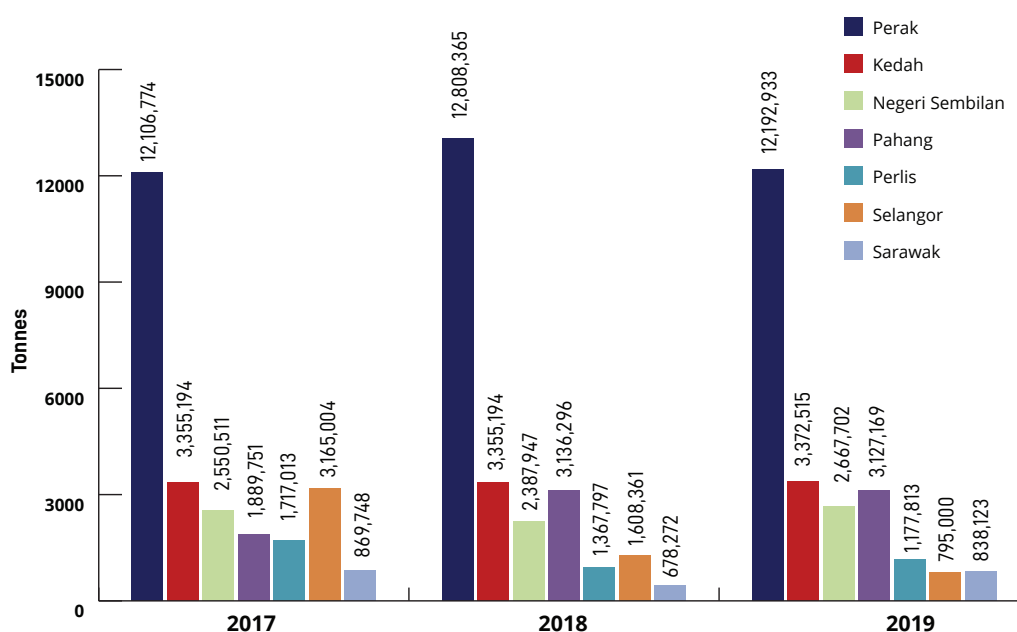

PRODUCTION

The production of limestone for the manufacture of cement decreased slightly by 4.7% to 24.2 million tonnes valued at RM224.9 million in 2019 compared with 25.3 million tonnes valued at RM282.8 million in 2018. Figure 13 shows the production of limestone for cement manufacturing from 2017 to 2019.

PRICES

The price of extracted limestone as raw material for cement production by the integrated plants is not available as the limestone is consumed in-house. However, the price was estimated to range from RM5 to RM22 per tonne.

MICA

Mica is a group of sheet silicate minerals (phyllosilicates) composed of aluminium, potassium, magnesium, iron and water. Though the commercially important micas are muscovite (potassium mica) and phlogopite (magnesium mica) are being used in broad applications the term mica is commonly signifies sericite or muscovite only. These minerals occur as flat, plate-like crystals that cleave into smooth flakes. The quality of mica is determined by its chemical composition and particle size.

Mica is used in the manufacturing of electronic insulators, paints, joint cement, dusting agent, well drilling muds, lubricants, plastics, roofing, rubber and welding rods while those of high-grade is utilised for cosmetic purposes. In this report, mica refers to fine-grained sericite derived from weathered sericite schist. The mica mined in Malaysia has the unique properties of excellent smoothness with very fine particle size.

PRODUCERS

There were two mines operating in the year of 2019 which were located in Bidor, Perak. The name of mica mines together with their addresses and locations are shown in Appendix 8.

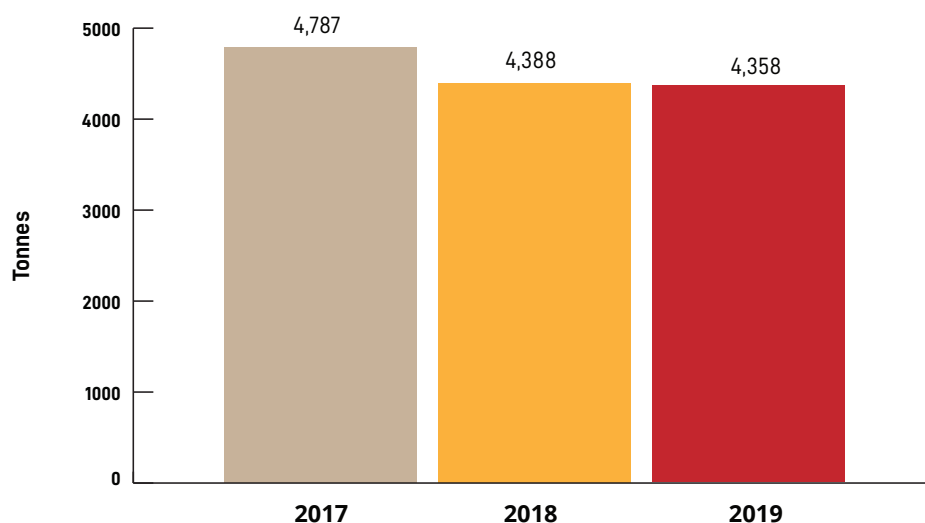

PRODUCTION

In 2019, mica production decreased slightly by 0.7% to 4,358 tonnes valued at RM2.61 million from 4,388 tonnes valued at RM2.63 million in 2018. The production of mica for the past three years is shown in Figure 14.

PRICES

In 2019, the price for processed mica was between RM460 to RM1,200 per tonne.

SAND AND GRAVEL

Sand and gravel are essential raw materials for the construction and infrastructure industries. Fine aggregates, generally consisting of natural sand or crushed stone are mainly utilised for the manufacturing of concrete mortar, cement bricks, filling and packing. Meanwhile, gravel which constitutes the majority of coarse aggregates is used for concrete and road base. Sand of a certain particle size distribution and shape is also used for golf bunkers and as water filtration media. Sand and gravel in Malaysia are mostly sourced from riverbeds; alluvial and offshore deposits; and mine tailings.

PRODUCERS

There were a total of 805 sand and gravel permit holders throughout the country in 2019. Kedah and Johor have the highest number of permit holders with 120 permits, followed by Perak (103), Pahang (101), Kelantan (83), Sabah (79) and the remaining were in other states.

The number of sand and gravel removal permits issued by states from the year 2017 until 2019 is shown in Table 8. A list of the number of sand and gravel removal permit holders is shown in Appendix 9.

PRODUCTION

In 2019, the production of sand and gravel increased by 54.6% to 69.4 million tonnes valued at RM1,050.3 million compared with 44.9 million tonnes valued at RM660.9 million in 2018. Pahang showed the highest production with an amount of 37.0 million tonnes, followed by Selangor (13.6 million tonnes) and Perak (5.9 million tonnes). Production of sand and gravel for the period of 2017 to 2019 is shown in Table 9. The increase of sand production recorded in the state of Pahang was due to high demand from several of Klang Valley development projects and nearby areas.

PRICES

The price of construction sand varies according to the source of the sand and states. During the year, the price of sand ranged from RM5 to RM47 per tonne.

SILICA

Silica is a commercial term used by the industry to describe a mineral commodity which contains high composition of SiO_2 . For industrial and manufacturing applications, deposits of silica-yielding products of at least 95% SiO_2 are preferred. Thus, suitable sand is processed and refined to enhance its quality in order to meet up with the standard. The process usually involved drying, screening, scrubbing, flotation, sizing, iron removal, grinding and acid leaching. In Malaysia, silica sand is sourced from natural beach ridges, man-made deposits of tailing dumps from alluvial mining of tin and among retreatment plants. Local silica sand is mainly utilised for glass manufacturing, as foundry material and in the chemical industries.

PRODUCERS

There were 32 silica sand producers in 2019, in which Perak recorded the highest number with 18 producers, followed by Johor (7), Terengganu (2), Sarawak (2), Kedah (1), Pahang (1) and Selangor (1). A list of silica sand producers, their locations and addresses is shown in Appendix 10.

PRODUCTION

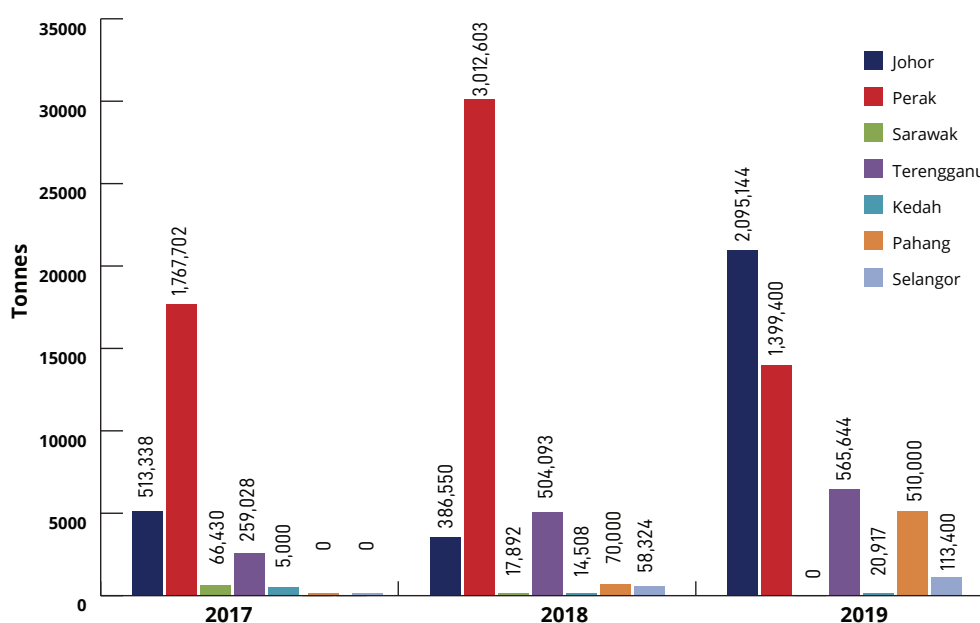

Silica sand production increased significantly in 2019 by 15.8% to 4.7 million tonnes in 2019 valued at RM398.0 million, compared with 4.1 million tonnes valued at RM234.2 million recorded in 2018.

Johor showed the highest production with an amount of 2.1 million tonnes, Perak (1.4 million tonnes), Terengganu (0.6 million tonnes) and followed by the other states. Production of silica sand for the past three years is shown in Figure 16.

PRICES

The price of silica sand varies from one state to another. In 2019, the price of silica sand ranged from RM20 to RM140 per tonne.
